Democrats sweep city elections

BY BETSY GAGNET

Tommy Longo has already begun his first term as the new Mayor of Waveland following a decisive victory in Tuesday's election over incumbent John Mason.

Longo was sworn in yesterday along with the new Board of Aldermen.

The new administration is comprised of all Democrats with three new faces on the board. The board has also begun work, meeting for the first time yesterday following the inaugural ceremonies.

Ward 3 Alderman Louie Smolensky is the only returning board member. In Ward 1, Milton Bernard defeated Rhonda

McPhail touched our lives

BY B.R. HAWKINS

The American flag flew at half mast outside Edmond Fahey Funeral home Monday night as Hancock County and the nation said goodbye to Evelyn McPhail. McPhail, who served as co-chair of the National Republican Committee and was active politically on a national level until an automobile accident in May 1997, died Thanksgiving Day at her home in Diamondhead.

Family and friends bowed their heads and offered their thanks for the blessing of having had their lives touched by one of Mississippi's brightest stars.

FEMA mandates adoption of building codes

BY B.R. HAWKINS

Hancock County Supervisors have been mandated by the Federal Emergency Management Agency to adopt county-wide building codes and standards prior to Jan. 1, 1999, for future public buildings, roads, and bridges.

According to Jim Maher, director of the Mississippi Emergency Management Agency (MEMA), the new rule mandates that counties adopt "fair and reasonable building codes and standards" for all public buildings, roads, and bridges constructed after Jan. 1, 1999. The new rule, Maher explained, is in response to FEMA efforts to reduce the loss from disasters and for all intents and purposes, is a formality since most counties who have come into compliance have simply adopted the Southern Building Codes and the State Aid Road Standards.

"The importance of this formality," Maher said, "is that counties will not be able to replace more than what they lost unless codes and standards have been adopted prior to Jan. 1, 1999."

MEMA spokesman Cliff Lusk

cited this as an example of how the new rule will work:

"For example," he said, "Say a county has not gone through the formality of adopting building codes and standards and on Jan. 2, 1999 loses a bridge that was constructed in 1940 in a disaster. Relief funds would only provide the county to rebuild the bridge at 1940 standards."

Maher said the rule will apply to county-owned hospitals, schools, airports. "The implications are obvious," he said.

Hancock County Chancery Clerk and County Manager Tim Kellar said that all bids will include language that specifies that construction be performed per the Southern Building Codes from Jan. 1, 1999.

County still dealing with storm cleanup

BY ED LEPOMA

Two months after Hurricane Georges, Hancock County supervisors are still dealing with the cleanup.

At Monday's recess meeting, supervisors asked interim-comptroller Jenell Tompkins to contact the Federal Emergency Management Administrator to see whether the county could be reimbursed for picking up appliances, roofing materials and other debris that cannot be burned at rubbish sites. If approval is granted, supervisors could let a contract for some hauler to pick up the discarded items or could pay county employees overtime to do it.

And, if your tree limbs and other burnable trash hasn't been picked up yet, you might have to wait until county or city road crews get around to it. The cutoff date for people throughout the county to put tree limbs, branches and other debris out on the roadside was Nov. 25.

Upon the recommendation of former Waveland Mayor John Mason, supervisors voted to make final payment to Smith Leasing & Equipment of Magnolia for the storm cleanup in that city. However, supervisors are withholding final pay-

ST. ANN-ST. JOHN NEWS

Thoughts for meditation:
 It is the things we always hold that we will lose someday. The only things we ever keep are those we give away.

And He has given us this command: Whoever loves God must also love his brother.

1 John 4:21
 Thus the heavens and the earth were completed in all their vast array. And God blessed the seventh day and made it holy, because on it He rested from all the work of creating that He had done.

Genesis 2:1 and 3
 Blessed is the man . . . who keeps the Sabbath without desecrating it.

Isaiah
 Here I am. I stand at the door and knock.

If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in and eat with him, and he with me.

Revelation 3:20
 Because of what I know of you, Lord, in faith I open the door of my heart and invite you into my life. Amen.

Do I depend on God completely?

Do not say I'll pay you back for this wrong. Wait for the Lord, and He will deliver you.

Proverbs 20:22

There will be visitation of the sick and shut-ins today, Dec. 3, and the first Friday of the month, Dec. 4.

There will be a second collection Sunday, Dec. 6 for the Building and Repair Fund.

As is customary, there will be no flowers on the altar during Advent.

Both St. Ann and St. John churches are in need of lectors, greeters and eucharistic ministers. There will be appropriate training for each ministry. Those interested in volunteering for any of these ministries may sign up after any of the masses or contact Father John J. Kelly. Call 467-4746.

Pass fatality

A Pass Christian teenager was killed over the Thanksgiving weekend when her car came out of Mississippi 67 and was hit by a southbound vehicle traveling along U.S. 49.

Harrison County Coroner Gary Hargrove identified the victim as Kateria R. Necaie, 18. Hargrove said Necaie turned her 1988 Volvo from Mississippi 67 into a vehicle driven by Tim Dearman, 17, of Wiggins, about 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Hargrove said the Necaie car flipped on impact, and she was not wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident. Two passengers in the Necaie car, Melissa Davis, 17, and James White, 15, were transported to Memorial Hospital at Gulfport.

A passenger in Dearman's car, Jefferey Stringfellow, was also transported to Memorial, where all were listed in stable condition.

Theme trees

Mississippi trees, Jesse trees, teddy bear trees, computer trees and much more will be on display at the Hancock County Library's annual Holiday Tree Gala Sunday, Dec. 6, 1-4 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library. "A Tour of Mississippi" is the theme of the tree by the Mississippi Homemaker Volunteers. Ornaments include magnolias, mockingbirds, wood ducks and other items depicting the state of Mississippi. A Jesse tree (above) decorated by students from St. Clare Catholic School in Waveland, is a bare tree decorated with Old Testament symbols. The symbols refer to specific readings from the Bible telling the story of the coming of Christ. Jesse was the father of David, and Christ was a direct descendant of David. The bare tree represents the fact that Christ is not here.

St. Rose Choir to perform at annual Library Tree Gala

The St. Rose de Lima Gospel Choir will perform at the Hancock County Library's 1998 Holiday Tree Gala Sunday, Dec. 6, 1-4 p.m. at the Bay St. Louis-Hancock County Library.

Other entertainment will include a special performance of Bayou Town Christmas by Cherie Schadler, and Christmas music by the Praise Bell Choir of the Main Street United Methodist Church.

More than 50 local businesses, organizations and schools will display decorated trees throughout the building.

"We invite the public to visit the library and enjoy an afternoon of music and activities," said Prima Plauche, library system director. "We will have holiday music, storytelling, a visit from Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, refreshments and beautiful trees."

"A Bayou Town Christmas" will be performed by Cherie Schadler, a native New Orleansian and resident Hancock County woman who strives to create wholesome, moral-based entertainment for children.

The characters in her book, Welcome to Bayou Town! are a result of her efforts. The performance will begin at 1:30 p.m. in the Seal Meeting Room.

The joie de vivre of the people of south Louisiana provided the inspiration for the characters and setting of Bayou Town. The Boudreaux family consists of Mr. Boudreaux, his wife, Miss Marie, and their son, Toby, along with the family pet, an alligator named Alfons.

The Main Street United Methodist Church Praise Bell Choir will perform at 2:15 p.m. in the main part of the library. This is a three-octave bell choir composed of 12 members from all occupations and denominations.

The choir originally began in 1981 as a two-octave bell choir, but soon expanded to the present three-octave bell choir. From this original choir, two children's bell choirs and small ensembles have developed.

The St. Rose de Lima Gospel Choir will perform at 3:15 p.m. in the main part of the library. Begun as a spin-off from the St. Rose Little Children's Choir organized by Marilyn Smith more than 20 years ago, the St. Rose Gospel Choir is non-

Carver-Hunt, Fitzpatrick featured at Serenity Gallery

Serenity Gallery will host a combined exhibit by Barbara Ann Carver-Hunt and Kat Fitzpatrick Saturday, Dec. 12, 6-8 p.m.

Carver-Hunt, a Canadian-born artist and storyteller will present one of the "Coyote Tales" at 7 p.m. The tales are a cycle of Native American stories of the trickster Coyote and his many adventures.

Carver-Hunt's new work reflects her love of myth and storytelling. Large clay animals, called "Pookas," are derived from Celtic legend. They are spiral-maned and adorned with beads. There is also a series of large luminous colored pencil drawings that are both figurative and whimsical.

Look for the parasols and teapots that often appear in her work.

Longtime Serenity goes remember a labyrinth of old doors, windows and shutters that formed the backdrop for a Kat Fitzpatrick show in 1991. It was so popular with visitors to the gallery that it stayed up for months after the show ended.

Last December Fitzpatrick brought a cloth replica of the labyrinth at Chartres Cathedral in France to the Coast.

Area artist returns from Japan, exhibits at Quarter Moon

When New Orleans artist Valerie Wozniak heard that Debbie Reynolds had purchased two of her jacket designs from Quarter Moon Gallery in Bay St. Louis, her first comment was, "You mean somebody named Debbie Reynolds, right?"

The answer was that the Debbie Reynolds, in town to perform at Casino Magic, had fallen in love with the hand-dyed silk velvet creations and had happily taken one home.

Valerie Wozniak began her career as a weaver, but became so enchanted with the dying process itself that she decided 10 years ago to make that the focus of her work. She specializes in the Japanese technique of "Shibori."

Recently she returned home from a two-week show in the Japanese town of Metsue, one of only five American artists invited to participate.

"I loved the way the Japanese wanted to know everything about how a piece is made. They are very careful buyers and ask many questions. When they finally decide to buy, everyone

Stamp artist schedules workshop

"Stamp artist" Debra-Mae Kren will conduct a stamping workshop at Bookends Bookstore Sunday, Dec. 6, 1-3 p.m.

Participants will use stamps, punches, stickers and more to create Christmas cards, tags and decorations.

Cost is $10 and includes all materials. The class is for 11-year-olds and up, and space is limited.

Call 467-9623 for reservations.

Fitzpatrick's continued interest in the labyrinth as a life metaphor and tool for prayer and revelation is reflected in her new work.

Based on the notion that "someday is here," precious and silly elements saved over a life time find their way into collages and drawings. A mixed-media series based on "the enduring oak" as well as clay "prayer spaces" will be shown.

Kat Fitzpatrick was recently featured on Mississippi ETV's "Southern Expressions" talking about her life as an artist and teacher. Some of the work seen in her studio will be part of this show.

A newly painted labyrinth on the floor of the gallery will be available for visitors to walk. It will also be used in the workshop on Sunday, Dec. 13, 1-5 p.m. titled "The Beast at the Center of the Labyrinth."

The two artists will combine storytelling, clay and walking the labyrinth in the workshop. The number of participants will be limited to 20.

Call or see Jerry Dixon at Serenity Gallery, 126 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, 467-3061, to register.

The exhibit runs through Jan. 12.

gets very excited, because it's a big event. I can't wait to go back!"

Wozniak will be appearing at Quarter Moon Gallery at 146 Main Street on Dec. 5 with a special showing of her holiday wear. She'll be available all afternoon to answer questions about her work and explain the various techniques she uses.

Evelyn McPhail

Evelyn McPhail of Diamondhead's life story can be told in many ways; one simple example, she worked her way from the bottom to the top.

Her start in life was about as bleak as one can be — abandoned along with two wee siblings in a home for children, and as a climax, reaching the prestigious post of co-chair of the Republican National Committee.

During her lifetime she did not just represent her native Mississippi, but every state in our great nation.

In her travels over the years she visited such countries as China, Russia and Czechoslovakia, spreading the word of the United States' Democracy. Following the fall of the Iron Curtain, she was asked — the only woman every asked — to speak to the Russian Duma (Congress) about America's two-party system.

In Czechoslovakia McPhail was an official observer for that country's first free elections in addition to visiting other countries of the world.

McPhail was what one could call an "expert" on political campaigning on all levels, yet, there was just something about her that drew people of all party lines to want to be a friend.

Along the way McPhail did not forget those who gave her a boost, such as the Palmer House for Children in Columbus, Miss., where she served as a longtime director.

Returning to Diamondhead in January, 1997, after retiring from her co-chair position, McPhail died on Thanksgiving Day from injuries she received in a May, 1997, accident while returning from a visit with her sister.

Her lifelong friend from the Palmer Home for Children days, Nell Frisbie of Kiln, said it best at her funeral service when she said, "Everything has its season. She loved the Lord. Now, she's gone to heaven with John (her late husband). She will not suffer any more."

Evelyn, to your children, grandchildren, relatives and thousands of friends from across this nation and the world, you were a GREAT LADY.

"CUEVAS' QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

I received a visit in the office on Saturday morning from Mrs. Dorothy Weathers, Sr., who asked if I would pass on some very important information to our readers.

Mrs. Weathers lost her son several weeks ago and wanted to bury him in the Biloxi National Cemetery, as he was a veteran.

The problem Mrs. Weathers faced was that she did not have a copy of her son's DD-214, and she did not know where one could be found.

It was not until Mrs. Weathers contacted a friend of her son, who was able to help her locate a copy of his DD-214 that was she able to have him buried in the National Cemetery.

On Monday I contacted our Hancock County Veterans Service Officer Donald Mauffray, who said that it is important for family members to know where a copy of a veteran's DD-214 is kept.

He said it is good to have a copy on file at the courthouse of their residence, in addition to family members knowing where it is located.

I wonder how many veterans themselves know where a copy of their DD-214 is located!

Saturday is the big day for the Pig Bowl at the St. Stanislaus stadium with the kickoff at 4 p.m., according to coordinator Matt Karl.

It will be Mississippi law enforcement officers against Louisiana law enforcement officers.

The Mississippi team includes players from the Hancock County Sheriff's Office, Bay Police Department, Highway Patrol, U.S. Marshal's Office, Pearl River County Sheriff's Office, Pass Christian Police Department and even several attorneys, Karl said.

Karl was scheduled to play, but has been sidelined with an ankle injury from practice.

Karl played for Hammond, the Zephers and Crescent City Crusaders for eight years in semi-pro football as a defense back and even tried out for the New Orleans Saints in 1974. He still enjoys playing the game.

The Mississippi team is coached by Billy Thomas, a five-year player for Mississippi State at defense end.

The admission to the game is a child's toy. The toys will go towards the Toys for Tots campaign.

Also on Saturday at 2 p.m., there will be a game for boys ages 6, 7 and 8 from the Bay against a team from the New Orleans area. This game will also be at the Rock-A-Chaw Stadium.

We hope to see you at the game Saturday.

The 8th annual Academic Competition for Excellence (A.C.E.) will be held at St. Stanislaus on Saturday.

This event for selected fifth, sixth and seventh grade students from the Louisiana to Alabama line to Hattiesburg North will comprise some 494 participants representing 51 schools.

The annual competition, established by St. Stanislaus in 1990, is to showcase and challenge the top young minds of the area.

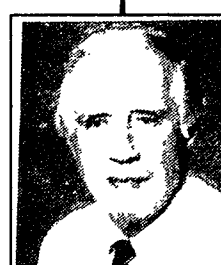

The participants will take competitive tests in English, science, math, and social science. Trophies will be awarded for first, second and third place in each subject per grade level.

The Naval Oceanographic Office from the John C. Stennis Space Center in Hancock County will have a demonstration of engineering and research equipment in addition to St. Stanislaus hosting special entertainment for the guests. Other special events are also scheduled.

This is a reminder that the telephone book recycling program is still underway in Hancock County.

The BellSouth and Hancock County Chamber of Commerce-sponsored project with help from the Board of Supervisors, MSU Extension-Hancock County, Fastway Systems and Mississippi Power will continue through Dec. 18.

Schools will receive cash dividends for the books which are collected by students.

EYES ON MISSISSIPPI

By Bill Minor

Uniform voter registration card still in the works

JACKSON—About four months ago, this column proposed the "Minor Plan"—a uniform voter registration card issued by the Secretary of State—as a simple solution for satisfying demands by some for a voter ID at the polls.

However, there would be no registration cards issued UNTIL the state cleaned up its voter registration rolls and rid them of long accumulated deadwood. "Phantom voters" is what I have always called non-existent voters still on county registration rolls.

Secretary of State Eric Clark is now four months into the process of doing that, a job, of course, counties should have been doing. Clark was given the task by a 1997 act of the Legislature to establish for the first time a statewide computerized central voter register.

Need I mention that practically every other state long ago has had such a central voter register. Simple reason: to know how many citizens are actually eligible to vote before you have an election.

In just four months sifting through rolls of 62 counties which so far have come to him, Clark has already identified 72,000 names that should be struck. Either they have died or no longer live in the county. Still more are to come off from 42,000 convicted felons, some of whose names may show up on the rolls.

Clark doesn't have the power under the 1997 law to automatically purge the deadwood voters from the rolls, he can only send the names back to each of the counties and have them do it. The law should give him some check to see if the names have been purged.

Obviously, Clark will be doing the work county election officials should have been doing, but he has the staff and is using Board of Health records, and U.S. Postal data to find who is dead or moved to get the job done right.

Now back to the Minor Plan and the statewide voter card. To borrow the claim made on TV of how such-and-such a product can take the fuss and bother out of your household chores, a simple, uniform voter card would make it easy and quick to prove your identity for poll workers.

It would eliminate the necessity and embarrassment of fumbling around to produce any of the laundry list of IDs ranging from your mug on a driver's license to your passport that hardcore voter ID advocates propose.

Besides, a voter card, the same for rich folks and poor folks, would carry a great deal of symbolism as your share of stock in our democracy. At election time, the news media could massively publicize the necessity to bring along your voter card.

Of course, some provision would have to be made for those who forget to bring their card or lose it. They could cast an affidavit ballot, similar to what is done now for voters if a question is raised by a poll worker about their identity.

A new voter card to replace a lost one ought to cost the voter a nice piece of change as a penalty, and he should have to go to a bit of trouble to get a replacement.

The idea of a voter registration card is not alien to a number of Mississippians. There are already some counties which issue registration cards to their voters. However, the cards differ from county to county. They would be uniform statewide under my proposal.

Those, including some in journalism, who trumpet the need for a voter ID at the polls to reduce the danger of fraud are beating a straw man that now doesn't present any real danger. There's no evidence in memory of anyone found falsely signing someone else's name on the voting list at a polling place.

Maybe that happens somewhere else, in South Side Chicago, or Pittsburgh, but not here.

The only area in our voting system where we do know fraud has existed is in absentee voting, due largely to the loopholes in the law which cynical politicians have exploited. At least a half dozen local officials have been charged with buying absentee ballot votes the past few years.

Secretary of State Clark is on the right track pushing for reforms in the state's absentee voting laws, and at the same time guaranteeing that disabled citizens who need assistance in voting absentee can get it.

First off, Clark would outlaw distributing absentee ballots to anyone who has not requested one, and prohibit paying campaign workers for every absentee ballot they collect. Anyone giving assistance to a disabled absentee voter would have to give his name on the ballot envelope.

As for the "Minor Plan" for a uniform statewide voter card, Clark has not signed off on the idea while he is still heavily engaged in setting up the central voter registry. Twenty counties still had not transmitted their rolls to him and there's still a lot of work left to finally get an accurate statewide registration record.

That will take well into the next year.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Pilot curious why Phillips' contract should not be renewed

To the Editor:

I have been involved in general aviation since 1973. During this time I have had experience with a number of FBO's (fixed base operators). Most are pleasant experiences, some are not so pleasant. One FBO in particular stands shoulder to shoulder with the best, Phillips Aviation at Stennis Airport in Hancock County.

Although the facility may not be the most luxurious, the atmosphere is one that any pilot can appreciate. Aviation is the language spoken there, and Mr. Gene Phillips always makes you feel at home.

The combination of honesty, competence, fair pricing and atmosphere certainly fulfills the needs of the aviation community in our area.

Why the Port and Harbor Commission saw the need for another FBO at Stennis Airport is curious. What is even more curious is why they do not want to renew Mr. Phillips' lease. This is not coming from the aviation community.

Sincerely,
Dr. Hal Jones

Cleanup—Struggling still

ment to contractors who were hired to clean up storm-related debris in parts of the county lying south and north of I-10 and in Diamondhead, but admitted there was little they could do to force the haulers, who might have missed areas to come back and make a third sweep.

Asst. Road Supt. Roger Ladner said there's still a lot of debris to pick up in Shoreline and Bayside Park subdivisions and in Pearlinton. He said some of the limbs piled up along the roadside are green, indicating residents cut trees or cleared lots long after the hurricane, and expect the county to haul the debris off, even though it is not storm-related.

"We're the ones taking the heat," said Ladner.

Supervisors Jeep Ladner

said he did not think the county could force the haulers to make a third sweep without paying them more money than was agreed upon.

County Attorney Gerald Gex said if citizens can document that they were missed, the county could force the contractor to come back and get the debris, but that might be hard to prove.

In other storm-related business, supervisors also voted to ask FEMA to extend until Dec. 18 the period for burning debris hauled to four disposal sites in the county.

Supervisors were informed by letter that the Department of Marine Resources has been notified by the Secretary of State's Office that Hancock County will get a supplement to its Tidelands funding for 1999.

Tidelands funding was cut about 40 percent from what was requested to all counties and cities along the coasts, but an additional $624,042 came into the Secretary's office after the state closed out its fiscal year July 1.

Hancock County received only $189,197 of the $300,000 it had requested, but was informed by Clark's office, it will get an additional $225,027. Most of the funds will go toward completion of the new county marina now taking shape off Lakeshore Road at Bayou Caddy.

Supervisors were also informed by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that it is ready to proceed with continuation of an on-going shoreline erosion repairs to the North Beach Seawall in Cedar Point. The county's share of the cost is estimated at $192,000, and the matching money will come out of Seawall Funds.

In other business Monday, supervisors voted to put out to bid a third time the contract to build a new Juvenile Detention Center that is proposed to be attached to the rear of the historic downtown County Courthouse.

Hattiesburg Architect James Polk came to the meeting after supervisors had already voted to readvertise the contract, and promised supervisors, "This time we'll get it in the money."

Board of Supervisors President Philip Moran shot back, "We're going to change quarterbacks if we don't."

At the outset of the meeting, supervisors were addressed by Amy Gregory, executive director of the Hancock Chamber of Commerce, and Echo Publisher Ellis Cuevas, who chairs the Chamber's Beautification Committee.

Gregory told supervisors she and Cuevas had toured the county Civic Center on Longfellow Drive and had praise for the recent spruce-up of the building. Grant said the Chamber is interested in staging its trade show there next year, and other large groups have inquired about the building.

She said the chamber, through its Beautification Committee, wants to help spruce up the outside appearance of the Civic Center. She said the chamber wants to put another trash receptacle outside, and Darleen Underwood with the state's Human Resources Department will ask Mississippi State University to donate shrubbery worth up to $500 to plant outside.

Cuevas said the walls have been painted inside the Civic Center, the bathrooms spruced up, and the ceiling is being repaired. He said the chamber would like some improvements made to the kitchen area, the bathroom floors restriped and the outside light fixture replaced.

He said he would also suggest that supervisors plant a tree outside in memory of the late District 3 Supervisor Howard Lizana.

Board of Supervisors President Philip Moran told them to make a "wish list" of improvements, and county building and maintenance crews or inmate labor might be used on the project.

Ellis Anderson also asked supervisors for use of the courthouse steps Dec. 12 as artists and downtown merchants take their wares to the streets to stage a Second Saturday celebration with caroling and other activities scheduled.

McPhail—Missed

"She touched the lives of everyone who knew her," said former chief of staff of the National Republican Committee, Judy Hughes of Austin, Texas. "The impact she had on politics locally and nationally was tremendous. She personally touched a part in all of us here tonight."

Dignitaries gathered for her service included First Lady Pat Fordice, the Governor's Chief of Staff Mark Garriga, U. S. Representative Roger Wicker, National Republican Committee Chairman Jim Nicholson, co-chair Patricia Harrison, Mississippi Republican Party leaders Gil Carmichael, Guy Hovis, Mike Retzner, Clark Reed and Delbert Hoseman.

Hailey Barbour of Yazoo

City, who served with McPhail as co-chairman of the NRC and spoke to the gathering, said, "Evelyn was an inspiration and a friend. She believed that politics was personal and with that belief helped shape the future of the Republican party in Mississippi."

Former Lt. Governor and candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, Eddie Briggs offered accounts of his personal and family's friendship with McPhail. From stories of her snapping beans to her address before the Russian Duma, he painted a portrait of her life drawn straight from the heart of the American dream.

The Rev. Stanley Wachtstetter, pastor of the Bible Tabernacle in Clinton who lead the service, met McPhail as a Bush appointee to the White House Commission on Presidential Scholars. "Evelyn had a wide embrace of the people in America," he said as he sat on the funeral home front porch with his wife, Helen. "She was the only person I knew that continually talked and worked toward expanding the tent, so to speak, without making compromises. She knew in her heart of the need for politics to be affective for all people. She was a wonderful woman and I have missed her for a long time now."

McPhail was buried Tuesday in Birmingham, Ala., beside her husband, John. Jefferson Memorial Funeral was in charge of the arrangements.

Aime-Grant to win the seat. Ward 2 was won by Richard "Ricky" Geoffrey who defeated Peter Gondrella. Charles Piazza took the seat in Ward 4, defeating W. E. "Bill" Cross.

Longo won the mayoral election by a margin of 2-1, gathering 939 votes to Mason's 464.

"I want to thank all of my supporters who worked so hard and so diligently," said Longo Tuesday night after the results were announced. "I also want to thank my family. It has been as hard on them as it has on me, if not harder, and I really appreciate them."

"I want to congratulate John (Mason)," he added. "He's a good man. He worked hard."

In the closest race for alderman, Bernard beat Aime-Grant 201 votes to 156 votes. The new alderman said he is anxious to get to work.

"I'm very happy. I want to thank my living God, and my friends and family that worked so hard," said Bernard Tuesday night. "I especially want to thank the voters who supported me."

"I'm going to roll up my sleeves now and begin the work," he added. "I want the citizens to be a part of (this) administration."

In Ward 2, Geoffrey garnered 199 votes to Gondrella's 133 to take the seat previously held by Jay Fleuriet. Fleuriet was defeated by Gondrella in the Republican primary.

Smolensky, who was unopposed in Ward 3, finished with 335 votes.

Piazza beat Cross 227 to 126 to claim the Ward 4 seat previously held by Al Kingston, Jr.

who did not seek re-election. "This is great, to be voted by your peers," said Piazza. "People just don't know how I feel. It's something I dreamed of for a long time."

SSC hosts ACE

The 8th annual Academic Competition for Excellence (A.C.E.) will be held at St. Stanislaus in Bay St. Louis Saturday, Dec. 5.

The competition is held to showcase and challenge the top young minds on the Gulf Coast. The event is held for fifth, sixth, and seventh graders from Mississippi schools from Pearlport to Pascagoula and from the Coast to Hattiesburg. This year ACE will host 494 participants representing 51 schools along the Gulf Coast and South Mississippi. Students will be coming from Gulfport, Biloxi, Long Beach, Ocean Springs, Pascagoula, Gautier, Vancleave, Hattiesburg and Pass Christian. Six elementary schools within Hancock County are also represented.

These fifth, sixth and seventh graders will take competitive tests in English, science, math, and social science. Trophies will be awarded for first, second, and third place in each subject per grade level.

Established at St. Stanislaus in 1990 to honor students who have excelled in their respective elementary schools, A.C.E. '98 will be bigger than ever before. St. Stanislaus will host special entertainment guests from around the Coast.

The Naval Oceanographic Office will have a demonstration of engineering and research equipment. Local ultralight pilots will showcase their planes along the shores of Bay St. Louis. Hot air balloonists will do the same.

Toward the end of the day, the Gold Coast Skydivers will dive into the action displaying their colorful parachutes. These are just a few of the events that will complement the student competition.

Remember Pearl Harbor

At 9 a.m. Dec. 5, the Bay St. Louis American Legion Post 139, Waveland American Legion Post 77, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 3253, the Marine Corps League, along with the Boy Scouts of Post 77 and 139 will hold a flag raising at the Bay Flag Memorial in front of the Hancock Medical Center on Hwy. 90 to remember Pearl Harbor Day, Dec. 7.

The large American flag will be raised along with the Mississippi state flag in memory of those killed Dec. 7, 1941.

It is the custom to remember all holidays on the weekend prior to the holiday by flying the large U.S. flag for the many visitors who visit the Coast for the holiday.

The public is invited to the Pearl Harbor Day program.

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3,

Bob Harmon Football Forecast

NFL Forecast
Thursday, Sunday and Monday,
Dec. 3, 6-7

Philadelphia, 14—St. Louis, 10
 The Eagles and Rams both look like decent passing attacks. Both first-rate — will go under the lights. The Rams beat the Rams the last time they met, in Arizona, 19—N.Y. Giants, 13

 The Cardinals briefly looked like defending NFC East champs, churning out 390 yards of offense in a 34-7 rout of the Giants. Since then N.Y. has looked a lot

Atlanta, 23—Indianapolis, 17
 The Falcons won for the Falcons, because Indianapolis came through the air against Atlanta's woeful pass the Colts are 10-0 in this series.

Buffalo, 26—Cincinnati, 12
 The Bills are better than the Bengals, and the Bengals are up against weaklings in the midst of such a Buffalo beat Cincy 31-17 in '96.

Dallas, 21—New Orleans, 14
 The Saints highlight for the Saints is their run defense, so the Cowboys beat them with the pass. Dallas has won 14 of 17 with N.O., most recently 24-16 four years ago.

Denver, 34—Kansas City, 14
 The Broncos won three weeks ago — with Bobby Brister
 John Elway once more — was the Chiefs' fifth straight
 K.C. has lost 13 of its last 15 at Mile High.

Jacksonville, 24—Detroit 20
 The Jaguars will be closer than it looks, featuring two of the in the NFL — but only one solid defensive line.

the Lions' In '95 Detroit blew the Jaguars out 44-0

Miami, 21—Oakland, 19
 This may be the battle of the week, though the Dolphins won't win by throwing the ball against the fearsome Raiders defense. Miami ended a 9-game losing streak in Oakland last year, 34-16

Minnesota, 35—Chicago, 7
 Trailing the Bears 21-10 at halftime in September, the Vikings rallied behind three Randall Cunningham scoring passes to win 31-28. Minnesota has taken 10 of its last 14 games with Chicago.

N.Y. Jets, 22—Seattle, 13
 The Jets looked unstoppable in Bill Parcells' debut in Seattle last year, as Neil O'Donnell's career-high five TD passes led a 41-3 rout.
 Lately N.Y. is stoppable, but not by the Seahawks.

Pittsburgh, 17—New England, 14
 The Patriots can slow the Steelers' running game, but can Pittsburgh stifle N.E.'s passing attack? Their last matchup was a defensive struggle in the '97 playoffs, won by Pittsburgh 7-6.

San Diego, 20—Washington, 10
 Despite their futility, the Redskins' offense is far from the worst in the NFL. The Chargers, however, have a defense that's rock-solid.
 S.D. will get its first win ever against Washington.

San Francisco, 32—Carolina, 16
 With Steve Young sitting out a month ago, the 49ers overcame the erratic play of backup QB Ty Detmer to split past the Panthers 25-23. S.F.'s fourth in a row over Carolina won't be so close.

Tennessee, 25—Baltimore, 9
 When the Oilers and Ravens clashed in Week 6, there weren't many highlights: Tennessee won 12-8, scoring the game's only TD on a busted play. The Oilers really do have a competent offense.

Green Bay, 28—Tampa Bay 14
 (Monday) Caught in a nightmare 12 weeks ago, Buccaneers QB Trent Dilfer endured six sacks and fumbled three times as the Packers humbled T.B. 23-15. G. B. has won 12 of its last 13 against the Bucs.

Mucho Macho at Magic

Presenting, in consideration of the Eight Coordinators, the present Mucho
 Magic Bay St. Louis, Dec. 3

Casino Magic is home to boxing champions such as Larry
 Holmes, Roy Jones Jr., Hector
 Camacho, Oscar De La
 Hoya and Roberto Duran.

Hector "Macho" Camacho Jr. will battle it out in the main event against tough contender
 Wayne Boudreaux of New Orleans, 24-13, 12 KOs.

The card will be the first televised event by FOX Sports
 South on the Mississippi Gulf
 Coast. Casino Magic's 37th

Camacho, 48-0, 120 KOs, is the most star to join America Bouts. The flashy young juniyor lightweight displays the speed and power that has been a trademark of his famous father, Hector Camacho Sr., who captured world titles in three different weight classes.

Camacho has already
 won four times this year, including two of his opponents he knocked out. Camacho has become a fan favorite since being defeated nationally twice this year in high profile world championship pay-per-view bouts in July and August.

He received his first world-title last month, No. 20, by the ABC. He made his FOX Sports debut last month, winning a unanimous decision over Fred
 Cord, 14-1, 15 KOs.

An additional welterweight bout features Brandon
 McInyre of Augusta, Ga.,
 2-1, 6 KOs, against Victor
 Perez of San Juan, Puerto Rico
 (1-2, 9 KOs).

In addition there will be four undercard fights and one women's lightweight bout.

Heavyweight Phil Jackson of Miami (41-6, 37 KOs) versus Ray Anis of Brooklyn (25-5, 19
 KOs) in a 10 round bout.

Jackson returns after winning a unanimous decision over former Top 10 contender Alex Stewart (43-8, 40 KOs), who knocked out Ezra Sellers, the WBC's No. 16 rated contender last month in a nationally televised fight July 24.

Anis (26-5, 20 KOs) has won all of his fights this year by knockout.

Other features include a super middleweight bout with
 Will McIntyre of Bogalusa
 (16-0, 7 KOs) and a heavyweight bout with local favorite,
 Clay Wilson of Gulfport (4-0, 3 KOs).

Featherweight contenders are Damien DuQuestrada of Cuba (6-2, 3 KOs) versus Alvin
 Brown of Kansas City, Mo. (3-1, 0 KOs) Matt Vanda of St. Paul,
 Minn. (11-0, 11 KOs) versus Hector Ramirez of Reynosa, Mexico (12-28-1, 6 KOs) in a six-round middleweight bout.

Additionally, there will be a six round women's lightweight bout featuring Joanne Martinez of Slidell (5-2-1, 2 KOs).

 the Casino Magic Bay St. Louis

Former Supreme, Mary Wilson performs at Casino Magic Sat.

The Supreme Mary Wilson is sure to shine in two performances at Casino Magic Bay St. Louis Saturday, Dec. 5 at 7 and 9 p.m. in the Magical Entertainment Complex.

Tickets are $10, $12 and $15 and may be purchased through TicketMaster and in person at the Casino Magic Gift Shop.

In 1959, Mary Wilson began singing with The Primettes, sister group to a male quartet called The Primes. The Primes would later become The Temptations, and The Primettes would become the successful singing group, The Supremes.

Between 1964 and 1977, the group had 12 number one hits, including "Where Did Our Love Go," "Baby Love," "Stop! In the Name of Love," "You Keep Me Hangin' On," "Love Child," and "Someday We'll Be Together."

They are the only American act to have five consecutive number one hits. From beginning to end, The Supremes had 33 songs reach the top 40.

In 1977, when The Supremes disbanded, Mary Wilson set out to become a successful businesswoman, author, lecturer, actress and singer of not just pop music, but jazz, rock, R & B and dance.

In 1979, Motown released Mary's first solo album, "Mary Wilson," which yielded the dance classic, "Red Hot."

She broadened her horizons by acting, later starring the musical, "Beehive," and in roles in Disney's "Tiger Town" and the film documentary, "Brown Sugar."

In 1986, Mary wrote her autobiography, "Dreamgirl. My Life As A Supreme," which sold more than 250,000 copies in hardback and received rave reviews.

That prompted its 1990 sequel, "Supreme Fair... Someday We'll Be Together," in which Mary recalls her struggle keeping the group together after the Motown factory came to a grinding halt.

She also candidly discusses her personal life, including her abusive marriage, raising a family, the tragic death of former Supreme Florence Ballard, and the less-than-cordial reunion with former Supreme Diana Ross on Motown's 25th anniversary TV special in 1983.

In 1994, The Supremes were honored with their star on the prestigious Walk of Fame on Hollywood Boulevard just months after she tragically lost her son, Rafi, in a car accident that nearly claimed her own life.

In 1995, Mary, who has never stopped touring, found herself back in the recording studio to record a new single with a new sound. Titled simply, "U," it is an R&B hit, working its way up the charts in Europe.

1996 was Mary's 35th official year in show business. She was the executive producer for the 35th Anniversary Boxed Set on The Supremes.

New show to open at Gulfport Grand Casino

Grand Casino Gulfport has announced the newest Greg Thompson Production to come to the Mississippi Gulf Coast—Jukebox Heroes.

Jukebox Heroes, which will open at the Gulfport Grand Showroom on Saturday, Dec. 5, Jukebox Heroes will feature The Mahoney Brothers in a phenomenal salute to some of the pioneers of rock 'n' roll. They will re-create Buddy Holly's "That'll Be The Day," The Everly Brothers' "Bye, Bye, Love," Jerry Lee Lewis' "Great Balls of Fire," Ricky Nelson's "Hello Marylou," and Elvis Presley's "Jail House Rock" in a spectacular opening medley. Throughout the show, they do classic carbon-copy impersonations of The Beatles, The Bee-Gees, and The Beach Boys, each one a show-stopping segment in itself.

These three exceptionally talented brothers are celebrating their 22nd year in show business and hail from Hamilton Square, New Jersey. They not only sing, but are also gifted with an ability to play a multitude of instruments. Tim plays bass, keyboards, guitar, and drums; Brian plays guitar, keyboards, sax, flute, and clarinet. Mike is a drummer/percussionist and plays guitar. Drummer Lou Colucci, is the only member of the group not related to The Mahoneys.

The female singing star is Susan Thompson, who began her career at Busch Gardens and went on to win the title of Miss Virginia. She has appeared in the Broadway musicals "Pump Boys and Dinettes" in the role of Rhett Cup and as Ruth in "Seven Brides for Seven Brothers." Thompson is backed-up by The Mistinguet Dancers, choreographed by Sheila Keating.

Showtimes are Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, and Thursday at 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. and Friday and Saturday at 8 p.m. and 10 p.m. Tickets are $9.95 and are available by calling 1-800-WIN-7777. Tickets are also available at all TicketMaster locations.

BUSINESS NEWS

THE SEA COAST ECHO—THURSDAY, DECEMBER 3, 1998-11

State records lowest unemployment rate of year

The state's unemployment rate dropped to its lowest level of the year in October and moved within five tenths of one percent of the national rate, the Mississippi Employment Security Commission (MESC) announced.

The October unemployment rate for the state was 4.7 percent while the national rate stood at 4.2 for the month. Last month the state rate was 5.1 percent.

Job gains were reported during the month in the manufacture of lumber and wood products and transportation equipment. Also showing job gains were the construction, trade and government sectors of the workforce.

"Hurricane Georges, which struck the Coast Sept. 27, had no long-term adverse impact on the labor force," said MESC Executive Director Thomas E.

Lord. "Most businesses were not closed for long, and many recalled workers were involved in clean-up activities," he said.

The labor force data shows that 1,281,400 Mississippians were working during the month of October. That figure is an increase of 15,900 people over October of 1997.

Lafayette County, with its 1.2 percent rate led the state again with the lowest rate, while Oktibbeha County with a 2.0 rate and Rankin County with a 2.2 rate ranked second and third.

Four counties, Simpson, Wilkinson, Claiborne and Jefferson, had double-digit rates with Jefferson County's rate of 13.4 percent being the state's highest.

"Mississippi's favorable comparison with national employment numbers is a strong example of the state's economic health," Lord said.

Grant writing workshop for non-profit organizations

Gail Seidensticker, former executive director of the Gulf Coast Community Foundation, will present a workshop featuring the basics of grant writing.

The workshop will take place Friday, Dec. 4, 8:30 a.m.-2 p.m. with a working lunch at the Business Technology Center, 1636 Popp's Ferry Road, Biloxi. Cost is $15. Price includes lunch and materials.

Homebased business

The Mississippi Gulf Coast Community College Small Business Development Center and the University of Southern Mississippi Small Business Development Center are offering a workshop, "How To Start A Homebased Business" Thursday, Jan. 28, 5:30-8 p.m. at the Applied Technology & Development Center, 10298 Express Drive, Gulfport.

State retirement system announces benefit increase

Retirees who had been drawing benefits from the Public Employees' Retirement System of Mississippi (PERS) for at least one full year as of June 30, 1998, will receive a cost-of-living adjustment (COLA) during December.

The amount each retiree receives will depend upon annual retirement benefits, the number of full fiscal years (July through June) that the retiree has been drawing benefits and whether a retiree draws the base portion of the COLA monthly or in a lump sum payment.

During the current fiscal year ending June 30, 1999, nearly 45,000 retirees and their beneficiaries will receive COLA payments exceeding $122 million, with 95 percent of the benefits paid to Mississippi residents. Payments for the year will average approximately $2,726 per retiree.

The COLA helps retirees maintain their purchasing power in the face of inflation.

The COLA consists of two parts. The guaranteed base COLA amount is equal to the increase in the Consumer Price Index for each year of retirement, with a maximum amount of 2.5 percent. The amount will be 2.3 percent for the fiscal year that ended June 30, 1998, and 2.5 percent for all previous years of retirement.

The PERS Board of Trustees has the discretion of adding up to 1.5 percent for each fiscal year of retirement, based upon the Retirement System's rate of return on its investment. For the fourth consecutive year, the discretionary amount will be the maximum of 1.5 percent due to four consecutive years with an actuarial rate of return exceeding 15 percent.

A retiree's COLA this year is equal to the cumulative total of 3.8 percent for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1998, and 4 percent for each previous fiscal year of retirement, multiplied by annual benefits. For example, a retiree who had been receiving benefits for three full fiscal years as of June 30, 1998, would receive a COLA payment of 11.8 percent of annual benefits — 4 percent each for the first two years and 3.8 percent for the third year.

Retirees have the option of receiving the base COLA amount monthly or in a lump sum in December. Retirees who receive the COLA in a lump sum will receive the entire amount in December. Those who chose monthly payment of the base amount will receive their discretionary COLA in December. That payment will be equal to 1.5 percent of annual benefits for each full fiscal year of retirement.

A retiree receives the same amount during the course of the fiscal year regardless of which payment option is chosen. Retirees receiving the base amount in a lump sum who would like to change to monthly payments may contact PERS to receive an Irrevocable COLA Election Form.

The form must be completed and returned to PERS by June 1, 1999, to be effective for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1999.

Retirees may contact PERS by calling 1-800-444-PERS (7377).

Beneficiaries who are receiving PERS benefits because of deceased retiree chose an option with beneficiary protection are also eligible for a COLA payment, as the retirees and beneficiaries under the Mississippi Highway Safety Patrol Retirement System and the Supplemental Legislative Retirement Plan. The same guidelines for determining the COLA amount applies to these benefit recipients.

County breaks ground for new equine arena

BY ED LEPOMA

A foggy day Wednesday did not dim the spirits as Hancock County officials gathered in Kiln to break ground for a new Equine and Livestock Arena.

The crowds began gathering at the site off the Kiln-DeLisle Road a little before 10 a.m., and waited about an hour for State Agriculture Commissioner Dr. Lester Spell to appear. Spell was to be the featured speaker, but dense fog delayed his arrival at nearby Stennis International Airport.

Johnnie Richard, who serves as president of the Hancock County Equine and Livestock Facility Board, started the proceedings without Spell at 11 a.m., and praised the various groups who worked together to bring the arena project to reality.

"This project is a community-oriented project," said Richard. "Everyone worked together to bring us to this point."

Richard likened the official groundbreaking to planting "a seed of a great oak." "It's going to be a beautiful facility," he promised.

Richard particularly singled out the late District Three Supervisor Howard Lizana for laying the groundwork for the arena. He said the project was one of Lizana's top priorities while he was in office.

John Caplinger gave the invocation and praised the foresight of the various state, local and civic leaders, who worked to get funding for the arena.

"It will be a place for good, clean, wholesome family fun," said Caplinger.

Board of Supervisors President Philip Moran thanked members of the past and present Equine and Livestock Facilities Board "for the many hours and days you put in on this."

He said there were some who doubted the facility would ever get off the ground, but the cooperation between members of the Equine Board, the local state legislative delegation, the state agriculture department and supervisors proved, "We can make things happen."

Moran predicted the arena will be "something that all of Hancock County can be proud of," and will be particularly appreciated by Hancock County's children. He also said Dr. Spell "played an integral part in helping us get the funding."

The county Equine and Livestock Arena will be constructed on an 80-acre site purchased at a cost of $200,000 by the previous Board of Supervisors. The cost of the facility is estimated at around $534,000, and was designed by architect George Cassis.

Moran Hauling Inc. of Kiln was awarded the contract after seven bids were reviewed last August, and construction is expected to be completed within 148 days.

Planned is a steel-fabricated covered arena, approximately 225 square feet by 300 square feet; a 144 square-foot steel frame building with a metal deck; and a 20-square-foot by 56-square-foot concrete block building, which will serve as the concession stand and restroom area.

Although the project was begun by a previous Board of Supervisors, it fell to the current Board to get the arena off the drawing board.

At one point, state funding seemed jeopardized, although supervisors allocated $155,000 for construction. The Equine and Livestock Facilities Board had to come up with a design and a business plan, and supervisors made several trips to Jackson to convince Agriculture Department officials that the project was feasible and needed.

After some lobbying, the state matched the $155,000, then allocated another $500,000 for the arena.

Other members of the Equine and Livestock Facility Board attending the groundbreaking included Dr. Michael Lee, who serves as vice president; and Commissioners Bill Frisbie, Wade Ladner, Tony Neishay, Pete Moran and Mark Shiyon.

The entire Board of Supervisors attended, along with U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor, State Sen. Scottie Cuevas and State Rep. Dirk Dedaux; County Administrator Tim Kellar; and a contingent of Seabees from Gulfport's Naval Construction Battalion Center, who volunteered their manpower to help clear the construction site. The Hancock High School Junior ROTC posted the colors to open the groundbreaking ceremonies.

Tricentennial collection on sale

The Biloxi Tricentennial Commission will unveil its highly anticipated collection of commemorative merchandise during a special preview opening of the Tricentennial gift shop, scheduled for Dec. 7-11.

During this special preview week, the gift shop, in Dantzler House, 1042 Beach Boulevard on Hwy. 90 in Biloxi, will offer for sale the items in its 1699 limited edition Tricentennial Collection.

"We're making this offer to not only unveil to the public the beautiful keepsakes they can purchase to commemorate Biloxi's 300th birthday, but to also give people a chance to buy unique gifts for the holidays," said Amy O'Neil, sales and marketing manager for the Tricentennial Commission.

"Tricentennial gifts make perfect selections for anyone who has an interest in this area or in history in general."

Items that will be displayed and offered for sale include key chains, t-shirts, hats, mugs, beverage huggers, Frank Janca posters, pens, coffee mugs, wine goblets and sweat shirts. Also on sale will be jewelry created for the Tricentennial by artist Maurice Millier, including earrings, bracelets, pins, pendants, necklaces with Baroque pearls; letter openers, decanters and more.

Also on sale will be Biloxi: 300 Years, the hard-cover, coffee table-style book of the city's history. The book, which only recently arrived from the publisher, is filled with photos that depict the people, places and events that define Biloxi.

Its editorial content, written by historian Dr. Val Husley, tells the city's story from the days of its earliest inhabitants to its current status as world-class family vacation destination.

O'Neil encourages people to stop by and visit Dantzler House and the Tricentennial gift shop.

"Be sure to give yourself plenty of time to browse," she said. "I have no doubt that everyone who sees the Tricentennial Collection will take great pride in the artwork and keepsake pieces that so beautifully reflect our area's unique history."
